

County Level Data Online

2003 DASIE Series  Data for Assessment, Surveillance, Indicators, and Evaluation

Overview

The current trend in data publishing is to place information on the Internet first and provide a limited number of paper copies upon request. Many organizations no longer publish written data reports. Web publishing has dramatically reduced the cost of providing information, increased timely access to information, and has increased the amount of data available to the public at no direct cost. This publication was developed to help direct you to credible sources for county level data on the Internet.

Accessing Data

Accessing data from the Internet often requires that you be able to view (download) files from a website, which means that you may need the following types of software on your computer: Adobe Acrobat Reader for pdf files, Microsoft Word, or Microsoft Excel. Adobe Acrobat is the most commonly used software for files on the internet and is available free online at:

<http://www.adobe.com/products/acrobat/readstep2.html>

Internet sites move web pages, data and publications around periodically. If a link listed on this sheet does not work or if you have problems accessing the data online, please contact Carolina Padilla at 509-527-3290 cpadilla@co.walla-walla.wa.us
